QUAKE TERRORS IN EUROPE

VIOLENT SHOCKS IN PORTUGAL

PLANES SURVEY AREA OF FORMOSA DISASTER

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 23, 9.30 a.m.)

London, April 22.

Earthquakes affected a wide area during the week-end, especially in the Mediterranean countries. There were violent shocks in Portugal, particularly in Oporto, although no casualties have been reported thus far. Damage has been relatively slight.

There were four slight shocks in Malta and shocks in Florence, Italy, which continued for over two hours. In Santiago, Chile, there was a short quake just after midnight.

In Valparaiso there were two short but severe shocks.—United Press.

Tokyo, April 23.

Aeroplanes are surveying the earthquake devastated territory in Formosa. Reports from the air-men indicate that the affected area covers approximately 2,000 square miles, from Shenchiku City in the North to Taichu City in the South, and from the seacoast eastward as far as the mountains where the aboriginal head hunters dwell.

Formosa's principal industry, the sugar crop and sugar plants, is virtually unscathed. The majority of mills and cane fields are outside of the earthquake zone.—Reuter.

LATEST CASUALTY LIST

Taihouku, April 23.
The latest official casualty list gives the total of dead in the Formosa quake—3,065, 7,889 seriously injured and 1,490 slightly hurt.

Houses wholly or partially destroyed number 24,936 and houses or buildings damaged total 5,209.—Reuter.

WORK OF RELIEF

Taihouku, April 23.
Warm sunshine, flooding the earthquake stricken areas of Formosa after a night of terror, is enabling relief parties from the Army, Navy and Red Cross to come to grips with the task of alleviating the miseries of approximately 250,000 quake sufferers.

Relief columns, sent by the Army, have reached the heart of the affected country with medical supplies, food and blankets, while the Navy has rushed a destroyer along the coast with supplies and doctors.

Japan has replied expressing warm appreciation of Great Britain's offer to send ships from the China Station, but states that the assistance of the British Navy is not needed at present.—Reuter.

CORNWALL LEAVES

H.M.S. Cornwall, which was standing by yesterday in expectation of orders to proceed to Formosa with medical relief supplies, has left Hongkong on manoeuvres, it is understood.

OFFER DECLINED

Tokyo, April 23.
The British Naval Attache, on behalf of Admiral Sir Frederic Dreyer, conveyed to the Japanese Navy Ministry to-day an expression of the deepest sympathy, with the offer to send ships from the China Station with relief supplies to Formosa.

The Navy Ministry, expressing sincere appreciation, replied that the situation was in hand and the British Navy's assistance was not at present required.—Reuter.

INFLATION DANGER

New York, April 22.
In a speech here to-day, Mr. Roger Babson, the noted economist and statistician, said that the United States deliberately unbalanced budget would be leading directly to inflation unless it was corrected very soon.—United Press.

RED ARMY FINALLY CHECKED

HEMMED IN NUT- CRACKER GRIP

AID FOR CHENG TU

Nanking, April 23.

It is announced here that Government troops have checked the Communist advance towards Chengtu and the main body of the Reds, under the famous Hsu Hsiang-chien, is at present hemmed in between the Peikiang and Kiating Rivers. The Government forces have the Reds in a sort of nut-cracker grip.—Reuter.

DANGER MORE REMOTE

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 23, 9.15 a.m.)

Chungking, April 23.
Large forces of Nanking troops are arriving in Chengtu. The confidence of the garrison and of the 150 foreigners, including many women and children, has been somewhat restored.

A few days ago, when the Reds were driving the defending lines back towards the walled city, foreigners were warned to make their way out of the danger area. They discovered that the roads and the river around Chengtu were impassable because of the roaming bands of bandits in the neighbourhood. One party, however, was evacuated by aeroplane.

Meanwhile, the crumbling line of provincial forces is falling back upon Nanking support and there will be a more determined resistance to the offensive which the notorious Hsu Shang-chien is directing against Chengtu.

Hsu is the man whose troops carried off Mr. and Mrs. Frenchman some weeks ago and who was erroneously reported to have allowed their execution. As a matter of fact, his troops treated the two missionaries very well and sent them to safety under escort.—United Press.

FRESH DIVISIONS

Chungking, April 23.

It is learned in official quarters that five divisions of Central Government troops are moving into Southern Szechuen to strengthen the Government position against the Reds, who are threatening the area around Chungking.

No fighting of major proportions, however, has occurred in this part of the province. Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, who is staying at Kwiyang, is reported prepared to fly back to Chungking at the end of this month.—Central News.

Hailing inauguration of a new phase of "the great experiment" that the United States has carried on in developing the Philippine Islands since the Spanish-American War, President Roosevelt signed the new Constitution which gives the islands virtual home rule while Filipino and Government leaders looked on. Seated at left is Secretary of War George H. Dern, at right, Manuel Quizon, president of the island senate.

Business For Idle Ships

BRITAIN'S BUSY TONNAGE GAINS

London, April 22.

Shipping laid up in the ports of Great Britain and Ireland on April 1 shows a striking decrease of 122,712 tons, when compared with the figures of idle tonnage on January 1.

The decrease is actually equivalent to 19.7 per cent. of the total of idle British shipping.

There is 373,322 tons of additional shipping when the figures of a year ago are compared; that is to say, the idle tonnage of that date has been diminished by 34.6 per cent.

In the London docks area alone the decrease in idle bottoms is 106,000 tons for the quarter.—Reuter.

DENOUNCED ROOSEVELT

BLIND SENATOR IS LONG'S ALLY

Washington, Apr. 22.

Senator Huey Long followed up yesterday's attack on the Roosevelt Administration by denouncing the President in the Senate.

He announced that Louisiana would refuse to pay Federal taxes if relief funds are withheld.

The blind Senator, Mr. Schall, asserted in the Senate that if the President's wishes were fulfilled, he would become a god, just as Lenin was a substitute for Divinity in Russia.

Meanwhile, Governor Talmadge of Atlanta has announced that it would be a national calamity for America and the Democrats if Mr. Roosevelt were again nominated for the Presidency.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI BANK CLOSES DOORS

NATIVE COMPANY IN DIFFICULTIES

Shanghai, April 23.

Efforts to tide over the April 30 settlement day have been set back by the failure of the Tung Tai native bank which followed last Saturday's closure of the Yung Shing native bank.

These two make a total of ten native bank closures since the Chinese New Year. Of this number, four were voluntarily liquidated and the remaining six were forced to close owing to withdrawals by depositors.—United Press.

HUSBAND AND WIFE PERISH TOGETHER

SON SEES TRAGEDY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 23, 11 a.m.)

London, Apr. 22.
An attempt to photograph a buzzard's nest on a cliff near Port Quin, Cornwall, led to the death of Major Robert Hemphill, commander of the Royal Military Academy Hospital, Woolwich, and Mrs. Hemphill.

He lost his footing and fell seventy feet to the beach under the face of the cliff. His wife was killed attempting to reach his body. Peter, the fifteen-year-old son of Major and Mrs. Hemphill, saw his father fall. He rushed for aid, calling his mother. Mrs. Hemphill, with extraordinary courage, attempted to reach her husband by descending the cliff face. She also fell, and died later in hospital.

Major Hemphill's body was carried away by the tide but was eventually recovered. Major Hemphill was formerly a well-known rugby footballer, and was capped for Ireland four times, distinguishing himself particularly in the 1912 games.—Reuter Special.

Ocean Plane Departs

CLIPPER HEADING FOR CALIFORNIA

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 23, 1 p.m.)

Honolulu, April 22.
The Oriental Clipper, Pan-American Airways big four-motor ocean transport machine which recently completed its maiden trip from Alameda, Cal., to Hawaii, hopped off on its return journey to the mainland at 3.29 p.m. to-day.

The plane was unostentatiously loaded, 4,000 letters going aboard. The crew, at their posts, waited watching their wrist watches and, like a railway express, the big machine rolled across the aerodrome at the precise moment scheduled for her departure. After a 3,000-foot run she rose smoothly and slowly climbed as she circled the city. She vanished quickly, dwindling into the distance, the roar of her open-throated motors dying to a whisper. Less than 100 persons saw her leave the aerodrome, due to the fact that the hour of her departure was given no publicity.

The Clipper carried 2,800 gallons of gasoline and 100 gallons of oil. Pan-American Airways officials view this return trip as a "routine flight."—United Press.

CAPT. GREEN TURNS BACK

YACHT'S PUMPS SPRING LEAK

The 25-ton yacht Romance in which Captain E. P. Green and his son left Hongkong for Vancouver last week arrived back in the Colony during the week-end.

The return was caused by a leak in the bilge pumps which could not be rectified while the boat was at sea. Captain Green is at present at Bailey's slipway and hopes to be able to complete the repairs and to get away within a couple of days on the first section of his voyage, to Yokohama.

DOLLAR AGAIN ADVANCES

The Hongkong dollar opened at 2s. 1½d., this morning, this being an advance of a farthing over the holidays.

The business rates this morning were 2s. 2½d. sellers and 2s. 2¼d. buyers, with the market quite firm.

Later.
The official rate advanced to 2s. 2½d. later in the morning. In Shanghai the opening rate was 1s. 7½d. but later there was an advance to 1s. 7¾d. Whilst the market is steady, somewhat nervous conditions prevail.

GERMANY RISKS ISOLATION

TRUSTS IN STRENGTH TO WIN EQUALITY

FRANCO-RUSSIAN PACT NEGOTIATIONS DELAY

Berlin, April 22.

It is indicated by the best-informed persons here that Germany is prepared to endure political isolation in the pursuit of her policy of securing full equality amongst the nations of Europe.

German statesmen believe that by continued strengthening of the Air Force and Army, other nations will be forced to offer terms compatible with Germany's demands for equality of status.

Meanwhile, from Paris, it is learned that legal experts are making efforts to draw up a military treaty for signature by France and Russia which will make the Soviet an ally of France but at the same time avoid any risk of complicating the relations between France and Great Britain and France and Italy.

Despatches from Moscow confirm the report that for the time being the negotiations between M. Maxim Litvinoff, the Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, and M. Pierre Laval, the French Foreign Minister, in respect to the mutual assistance pact, have been halted. However, although M. Litvinoff is being summoned to Moscow to report to the People's Commissars, M. Laval still expects to visit Moscow to discuss the treaty further with the Russian Government.—United Press.

POLICE BRUTALITY ALLEGED

GERMANS DENY KNOWLEDGE

PROTEST BY SWISS?

(Special to "Telegraph").

Basle, Apr. 22.
Another Swiss protest to Germany is believed imminent as the outcome of the treatment of a young Swiss couple living in Basle. The wife of the household is a former German subject.

In response to the notification that a registered letter was awaiting them, the couple went to Lorrach, just across the border. They were handed an envelope which contained nothing, and as they were examining it in mystification they were suddenly accosted and informed that they would be held at the disposal of the police. The husband objected and was maltreated by the police.

It is stated that the couple were closely examined with regard to their movements and relationship and kept three days in prison before being allowed to return to Switzerland.

The German authorities at Lorrach deny all knowledge of the case.—Reuter Special.

Bandits Kill Britishers

BANK RAIDED IN SANTA CRUZ

(Special to "Telegraph")

Buenos Aires, Apr. 22.
Two Scottish bank assistants were killed to-day and the manager and his wife were wounded when armed robbers raided, at the point of revolvers, a branch of the Anglo-South American Bank at Port Santa Cruz, Catagonia.

The robbers escaped with 200,000 pesos. The manager and his wife, who are English, are expected to recover.—Reuter Special.

FAR EASTERN POLITICS

JAPAN MUST BE STRONG

Richmond, Va., Apr. 22.

In an address before the Women's City Club to-day, the Japanese Ambassador to Washington, Mr. H. Saito, said the zest for profits from their mutual trade would keep Japan and America out of a war.

Commenting upon the allegation that Japan was becoming increasingly imperialistic towards China, he said his country's Far Eastern position must be particularly strong for strategic reasons, but that did not mean that Japan sought to control the trade of China.—Reuter.

Athens, April 22.

A Court Martial has sentenced to death Generals Anastase, Papoulas, Miliades and Kimis.

All were charged with organisation of the Republican Defence Association, which was prominent in the recent revolt, supporting the Liberal leader, M. Venizelos.—United Press.

Miss Joan Batten, flying from Australia, to England, has arrived here. She hopes to hop off again to-night on the next leg for her journey. She requires to reach England in three days, or less, to beat the time of her outward flight, which was a record for women.—Reuter.

"R. D. B." LOOKS AT BRITAIN.

TELLS AMERICA 'HOW' AND 'WHY'

NEWSPAPER REFORMS

London, April 14. If young men on leaving college take the advice of Mr. R. D. Blumenfeld, journalist and editor of two hemispheres, they will devote a year to European travel instead of, say, climbing towards executive positions via factory-wheel and office experience.

"R.D.B." as he is known beyond the British newspaper world, interviewed by the United Press, began by speaking of the journalistic career but promptly made clear that his counsel would equally apply to those on the threshold of any business or profession. His message to youth bore the authority of rich experience garnered by the youngest septuagenarian in London.

"The young American has a better chance than the Briton," Mr. Blumenfeld affirmed, "for he is untrammelled by tradition, can say and do things the Englishman cannot. America forgives youth for idiosyncrasies and blunders, less readily condoned in Britain."

"If I were a boy in the United States, I'd equip myself for world journalism, not merely for American journalism. I'd learn French, German, especially Spanish and, above all, master the writing of English, simply without adjectives. After a year in Europe and some browsing in London I would return and teach people world affairs."

That this advice was also intended for other vocations was made clear when Mr. Blumenfeld denounced the view that the United States are isolated and described the commercial intertwining of America with the rest of the world.

INTER-DEPENDENCE

"Surrounded by a Chinese wall," he stated, "the United States could at most live on its own fat for a decade."

He attributed Britain's predominance to "the grand four plus self-confidence and a little snobbery" from which British youth has come home with intimate knowledge of Continental life, ready to assure British business of access to the ground floor in the world's markets.

Mr. Blumenfeld, 71, spoke with the background of a man who, a native of Watertown, Wis., passed from Chicago reporterhood, editor of New York Evening Telegram, London Correspondent of New York Herald, to thirty years as editor of London's Daily Express. Now that he has been the confidant of leading men in British public life for decades he can recount with gusto how Mr. Gladstone snubbed him in 1892.

In 1907 Blumenfeld abandoned American citizenship to become a British subject—a change, he explained, prompted by self-protection and decency, as he was then conducting political campaigns through the Daily Express which had retained United States citizenship, would have branded him as an interloper. He spoke frankly of the absence of racial prejudice in Britain. "He explained, for instance, that being Jewish, he might have encountered barriers in other countries; but this had been no bar, for example, to membership in the Carlton Club, the most exclusive of its 'high-hat' ilk."

"I was never aware that I am a Jew," Mr. Blumenfeld said, "until Hitler imbued me with that sense of race. Now I am 150 per cent race conscious."

CATASTROPHE AHEAD

Neither Hitlerism nor bolshevism can avert the catastrophe towards which humanity is sliding, in R.D.B.'s view. He has small patience with such contemporary movements as that for a

MASKING AID Weekly Routine For Complexion Beauty

HOME TREATMENTS

Jean Parker, film star, uses water regularly to keep her skin clear of blemishes.

By Alicia Hunt

GETTING your body in healthy, normal condition, is the first step toward complexion beauty, of course. You can't have clear skin if you are always tired from lack of sleep or if your digestion is faulty. Do all you possibly can to get in excellent physical shape and then supplement your health routines with the right home beauty treatments.

If you apply some kind of mask once a week the chances are your skin will be as fresh and attractive as your new spring bonnet. Choose a good one, make by a reliable firm, or, if you like, use the plain, old-fashioned egg mask.

If your skin has a tendency toward dryness, always smooth on tissue cream after you have removed a mask. Put it in for a few seconds, remove and you're ready for foundation lotion and makeup.

In addition, use your skin tonic or mild astringent twice a day. You'll find that your lotion is much more effective and certainly more soothing to the nerves if you use it very cold. Keep it in the icebox or set it in a bowl of cracked ice before you start to put it on.

If you have clogged pores, use plenty of soap and water before cleansing cream and then gently press out the impurities after you have removed the cream. Never pinch or bruise the skin and be sure to put an antiseptic on the places you have squeezed.

shorter working day, which he conceives as leading to a surfeit of leisure which can only create mischief.

"With but a few hours of labour," he asked, "what will men do in idleness? They can't all recite poetry. And the devil preys on idle minds. Civilisation's debacle can be averted only if some genius finds a new method for pursuing the three-fold ideal of life-love, stomach, money."

"I do not lament the disappearance of the dukes, though I regret the emergence of a new crowd of wealthy speculators. Yet Britain's great strength is her aristocracy and working class, the two being alike in spirit, not the inconsequential middle class."

While asserting that Britain is leading the way to recovery, Mr. Blumenfeld discerns a possible by-path to destruction in the inheritance taxes here.

"In the War we shot away £7,000,000 a day," he said. "In these peace times, the state destroys a man's wealth when he dies. If he leaves £2,000,000, half that

COLLECTION AGAIN UNDERTAKEN

London, Apr. 13. Although the most heavily taxed people in the world, the British people are being asked to dive in their lean pockets in the cause of theatrical art.

A campaign has been started to raise £150,000 to build a national theatre. Actually, it is estimated, the theatre will cost £600,000, but there is £150,000 in hand from the first public appeal, launched 27 years ago.

The War and other causes saw the scheme shelved, and the fund has been lying dormant ever since.

The new scheme is in the hands of Lord Lytton, who was one of the original sponsors. He announced recently that the committee of the Shakespeare National Theatre, at Stratford-on-Avon, had asked him to try and raise the money.

It is understood that the necessary £350,000 will be raised by a nation-wide whiling fund. It is probable the celebrations in connection with the Silver Jubilee of King George's reign this May, will also be used for public collections. The fund is not confined to Britain. The dominions can contribute as well.

No plans regarding the theatre, itself, have yet been prepared. It is generally accepted that it will be in London, and one report mentions the site of the Alhambra Theatre in Leicester Square.—United Press.

STRANGE PETS FOR YACHT

BLACK SWANS FROM SYDNEY ZOO

Although Lord Moyne and his party—among whom was Mrs. Winston Churchill—spent only one day in Australia in their world cruise in the ex-channel steamer Rossaura, they found time to visit the Sydney Zoo and acquire four black swans. The yacht's menagerie already comprised a pet monkey from Panama and two honey bears from Borneo.

The travellers had voyaged in a leisurely manner through the Mediterranean and the Red Sea to Madras and Rangoon and slipped across to Sydney quite unexpectedly to put two of their number, Captain and Mrs. Kellet, aboard the Monterey bound for America.

amount is thrown down the sink." R.D.B. regards extra clothes, the cinema and other pleasures accruing to the humble citizen as a result of death duties at the bottom of "the sink," insisting that they develop no resources, denote waste of ephemeral wealth and fail to build for posterity.

FUTURE OF PRESS

As to the British press, to which he has devoted more than half his eventful career, he believes that newspapers are emerging from the jazz age "towards something more substantial."

"We may idle out pap on the sports and gossip pages," he said, "but we read the reader gently to the editorial page and make him think. Some of the popular newspapers have driven people into the vortex of stupidity."

As chairman of an Institute of Journalists' committee and deputy master under the Prince of Wales of the Ancient Stationers' and Newspaper Makers' company, Mr. Blumenfeld is sponsoring a bill in parliament, designed to raise the level of newspapermen by obliging them to be registered before practising their profession, such as doctors, lawyers, dentists and midwives. Should the bill be adopted, journalists will for the first time be subjected to educational and intelligence tests and held accountable to the law for misdeeds.—United Press.

20th ANNIVERSARY

GALLIPOLI LANDING TO BE CELEBRATED

The twentieth anniversary of the landing at Gallipoli on April 25, 1915, will be celebrated in Hongkong on Thursday by Australian, New Zealand and other residents.

Arrangements have been made by the Australian and New Zealand Association to lay a wreath on the Cenotaph on the occasion.

The ceremony will take place at 11 a.m., wreaths being laid by Dr. H. D. Matthews on behalf of the Association, of which he is President, and by other interested parties.

Hongkong residents, and particularly Australians and New Another Canadian actress to score a brilliant success in London is Miss Elaine Wodson, of Toronto. Miss Wodson's most recent triumph is "Happy and Glorious" which has earned her unqualified praise of London critics. There are only two characters in the play, Miss Wodson, the author, Wilfred Walter.

Zealanders, are requested to attend the ceremony which will mark the anniversary of the commencement of the greatest conflict in the Great War outside the German fronts.

British and Dominion troops effected a miraculous landing at Gallipoli on April 25 in the face of a withering fire from the Turks entrenched on the hillsides.

April 25 is now recognised in the British Empire, particularly in Australia and New Zealand, as Anzac Day. The word "Anzac" is derived from the initial letters of "Australian (and) New Zealand Army Corps."

Special Anzac Day programmes are being broadcast from Darenty and Sydney this year.

Evelyn John St. Lee Strachey, British author and lecturer, was arrested by United States Immigration authorities at Chicago, during a speaking tour of America. He was charged with being a Communist and attempting to overthrow the United States Government contrary to his oath denying such activity. Deportation of the well-to-do British radical was threatened by American immigration officials.

HOME GARDENING: V

MAIN REQUIREMENTS FOR A ROCK GARDEN

BY DR. C. H. CONNORS

Rock gardens have become one of the most popular forms of gardening activity. Popularity frequently brings in its wake abuses, however, and the gardener who makes a rockery just because his neighbour has one is apt to have nothing but a heap of rocks crowded with a miscellaneous assortment of garden plants.

For ideal results, due thought must be given to selection of a proper site, selection and placing of rocks in harmony with the climate and environment, careful preparation of the soil and selection of suitable plants.

The rock, or alpine, garden in its truest sense is a place in which lected, however, it should be consistently adhered to if any sense of unity is to be preserved.

For the best effect, the rocks should be weathered, and if mosses or lichens are growing upon them, so much the better. If only freshly broken rocks with sharp edges and clean faces are available, bury them completely rather than use them in the alpine garden.

When the rocks are finally selected and set in position, with a portion of each buried, see that the slope of the rock is inward. If this precaution is taken, any water that falls on the garden will run down to the roots of the plants.

The rock garden must have a proper setting, one that will do

Here is a rock garden in which careful thought has been given to the selection of both plants and rocks, and to their harmonious arrangement. Added interest is given to the rocks if their pockets or pits are planted with a Sempervivum or Live-forever, as shown above. Note the stately, Japanese primula at the base of the large boulder. The low-growing, feathery patch of bloom in the foreground is Quakerlady. Innocence or Blue (Houstonia cernua).

A particular group of plants is cultivated. The rocks are used not for their ornamental value, but to create proper growing conditions for these plants, and when a rock garden is properly constructed, from one-third to two-thirds of each rock is buried. This buried portion furnishes coolness to the roots of the plants.

The soil for use among the rocks, especially for the filling of pockets, is carefully prepared for these plants, and is usually made up of garden soil, broken stone, limestone and humus, so that a gritty, open soil is in place for the plant roots.

In selecting rocks for the garden, choose a type that is representative of the neighbourhood if possible. Whatever the type, justice to its picturesque, peculiar type of charm. It should be located on sloping land, if possible, and a suitable background will help make a complete picture. Evergreens provide probably the best background for such a garden.

Use care in selecting the plants. Shrubs, whether evergreen or deciduous, should not quickly outgrow their situation, and flowering plants should be chosen from the point of view of their suitability.

Although geraniums, salvia, petinues, zinnias, marigolds and similar plants are appropriate additions to the annual border, they are not good choices for the rock garden. The alissums, sublettias, campanulas, dwarf columbines, sea-thrift and hardy candytuft are better plants for rock garden purposes. (Next Thursday: Garden pools).

Tanks of all sizes and descriptions now in use by the British army will take part in the military review at Aldershot this Summer as part of the celebrations commemorating the King's silver jubilee. One of the tank sections is shown making an advance on review.

REDS SNUBBED

BRITISH LABOUR'S ATTITUDE

London, Apr. 22.

A policy of rooted opposition to affiliation with the Communist International was adopted by a large majority at the Easter Conference of the Independent Labour Party at Derby.

"There is not a cat in Hell's chance for the United Revolutionary workers movement, through action with the Communist Party," said Mr. J. McGovern, the Labour M.P. for Shettleston. "Their only aim is to further the Communist Party's interest. In return for Moscow's gold they carry out Moscow's instructions like commercial travellers."

"The I.L.P. refuses to take orders from Moscow."

The Standing Orders Committee caused laughter by recommending that the words "working-class" and "middle-class," be substituted for "proletariat" and "petit bourgeoisie."

The I.L.P. Guild of Youth has been forbidden to amalgamate with the Young Communist International.

Back to the Land

"Back to the land," was a feature of the policy stressed by the speakers at the Labour Party Easter discussions at Oxford.

Mr. Walter Smith, Chairman of the National Executive of the Labour Party, declared that England would never again be the manufacturing centre of the world and land settlement was therefore of the most vital consideration for the workers.

Dr. Charles Addison M. P., estimated that Great Britain could produce £200,000,000 worth of food now imported, but the primary condition of intensive land cultivation must be National ownership of the land.—Reuter.

Lonely and forlorn, a tiny training blimp—the United States Navy's J-4—is the only occupant of the gigantic Sunnyvale hangar since the crash of the ill-fated Navy dirigible Macon off the coast of California—Official United States Navy photo.

Captain V. J. B. Holland, Officer Commanding, and members of the Air Defence Company, S.V.C. were the guests of honour at the Royal Air Force Association's weekly dinner in "The Dome" of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building. Sir Victor Sassoon, Chairman of the R.A.F.A., presented the company with the magnificent bronze trophy of an eagle with its wings spread wide, standing on a rock. The trophy was designed and built by Mr. C. E. Strohmeier, and weighs 125 pounds. It is to be used for competition amongst the members of the Air Defence Company. Both Sir Victor and Captain Sassoon, President of the R.A.F.A., spoke with pride of the growth and development of their godchild, the Air Defence Company, and Sir Victor related events surrounding the inception of the Company. In the above are seen the members of the R.A.F.A. and their guests.

Then follow the charming Kinder-Scenen of Schumann, two Intermezzi (Ops. 117 and 119) of Brahms, and a fine group of Chopin, the G. Major Nocturne, the Impromptu in A flat major, and the Andante Spinalato and Polonaise in E flat.

Such a programme, played by Madame Masson, cannot but be a noteworthy event in local musical activities. Tickets at prices from $1 are obtainable at the Anderson Music Co.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V'S SILVER JUBILEE.

Appeal On Behalf Of Charities.

On the 6th May next the British Empire is giving thanks and praise that for 25 years His Majesty King George V has been preserved to bear the sceptre of sovereignty and maintain the unity of the Empire. His Majesty's great interest in all forms of charity is universally recognised and it is known that His Majesty desires this auspicious occasion to be in some manner dedicated to assisting charitable objects. It has, therefore, been decided to collect funds throughout this Colony for charitable purposes, the subscriptions not to exceed $1 and humbly to pray His Majesty to nominate the charities in this Colony to which the moneys collected should be devoted.

The Charitable Collection Sub-Committee is providing boxes for the purpose of the collection and all those who wish to assist in this laudable object are asked to communicate with the Honourable Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.C., LL.D., of China Building, Hongkong, who is representing the Chinese Sub-Committee formed for this purpose or to Mr. S. F. Balfour of the Colonial Secretariat, Hongkong, who will arrange for collecting boxes to be forwarded.

What Do Fashion Papers
Mean To You?

You ladies who delight to scan the fashion papers, is it not true that your interest and enjoyment are greater when you are feeling fit? It is then that you visualize yourselves in the different creations, and not when worry over your health is uppermost in your mind.

So it is throughout the routine of daily life, your enjoyment depends on your state of health.

Health depends primarily on the condition of your blood. If the blood is thin and weak then you are an easy victim to a host of ailments, not the least of which are back-pains, insomnia, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism, pallor, neuritis, poor appetite, depression, nervousness, emaciation.

To be happy and well you must keep your blood in good condition, and in the East great demands are made upon it, due to excessive perspiration in the heat which renders it thin and poor. A tonic capable of maintaining the blood at a high level both in quality and quantity is what you require, and for this purpose there is none better than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, known throughout the world on account of its proved efficacy for rehabilitating the blood. If you are feeling run down or depressed, take
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; they have restored many such sufferers to robust health. Obtainable at all chemists.

TRADE COMMISSION
REPORT

"The Commission soon shed any illusions which they may have entertained regarding the possibility of discovering any easy road to recovery. . . . It became obvious from the outset that factors beyond the Colony's control dominated the situation." In these words, the Commissioners appointed by the Government to study the depression, and to make recommendations for amelioration of the existing position and for the improvement of the trade of the Colony, sum up the general situation. Whilst they put forward a series of proposals, some sound and others debatable, they find that, in the main, the most that the Colony can do is patiently to await better times. The problem which they were charged to investigate was, in miniature, the general problem facing all nations at the moment, modified to some extent by peculiar local aspects not generally encountered elsewhere. They have produced a valuable analytical document, the preparation of which has involved a deal of hard work and careful thought. If they have failed to find any royal road to salvation, they have at least indicated some respects in which beneficial action may be taken. The conclusion reached, that the Colony exists primarily by reason of its entrepot trade, and that its future largely depends on the preservation of that trade, must find general acceptance. The Commissioners, however, considered that the Colony's light industries have a future, and accordingly set out certain requisites for their future development and expansion. In this connection, it will probably come as a surprise to most people to learn that there are at present some five hundred Chinese-managed factories in the Colony, with a total capital value of some fifty million dollars. But in seeking ways and means for the expansion of these industries, the Commission encountered two possibilities which ran somewhat contrary to each other—closer economic contact with China, or with the British Empire. In the main, the Commission appears to lean rather more towards the former alternative, basing its view on fact that the economic link with China is, by reason of geographical propinquity, stronger than Imperial ties can be reasonably expected to become. The mischievousness, however, that inasmuch as the Commission recommends no departure from the Colony's free port status, there is little that we can offer in the way of a quid pro quo for any concessions that China might be prepared to make in respect of favourable treatment for Hongkong manufactures. The most we can promise, apparently, is close co-operation in safeguarding the Customs revenue, or, in other

NOTES OF THE DAY

CO-OPERATION

Diplomatically speaking, the distance between London and Washington is less via Manila than via Queenstown, the Christian Science Monitor recently observed. The shortest path to Anglo-American co-operation lies across the Pacific. The friendly American response to General Smuts's proposal for an understanding between Britain and America emphasises again the fact that Americans, perhaps because they have the habit of pioneering toward the West, are far more ready to recognise the value of co-operative peace endeavours on the Pacific than on the Atlantic side. The fact has had earlier proofs. The "open door" policy was established primarily by understandings with Great Britain. The United States' closest approach to the League of Nations, which saw Ambassador Gibson actually sitting with the League Council, grew out of the Manchurian crisis. And during years when mere mention of a "consultative pact" in London or Geneva evoked isolationist shudders in every Senate chamber the United States was already signatory to such an agreement in the Pacific area—the Nine Power pact.

LEANING APPARENT

In the last few months the breakdown of naval conversations and Japan's denunciation of the Washington Treaty have once more exhibited America's West Washington leaning toward the West. Washington's unofficial welcome of General Smuts's speech only confirms the attitude developed at London. The possibility that Britain might be induced by an offer of favoured treatment for her commercial interest in China to renew her old alliance with Japan brought home to American statesmen the folly of diplomatic isolation in the Pacific. And for their part, actual consideration of such a policy gave British statesmen a renewed appreciation of what damage shortsighted expediency might wreck among intangible but vital ties which bind the English-speaking world. At that time an epochal speech by General Smuts drove home the Dominions' desire to "march" with America, and crystallised a deep and widespread feeling among Britons everywhere that this "fundamental affinity, coming from the past, stretching to the future, is, or must be, the real foundation of all British foreign policy." Nowhere is the common outlook and tradition of Britain and America more evident than against a background of eastern intrigue. Nowhere does their community of commercial and political interests stand so clearly revealed as in the Pacific.

words, in the suppression of smuggling. As China might reasonably expect such co-operation in any event, it is only natural that doubt should be felt regarding the possibility of devising any scheme which would be to the specific advantage of this Colony. Some stress is laid on the desirability of exploiting, as far as possible, Hongkong's advantages in respect of cheap labour, and somewhat undue emphasis appears to be laid on the point that social reforms locally should be introduced only in reasonable conformity with those enforced in neighbouring countries. On this point, the Commissioners would appear to have largely lost sight of the fact that it is these low standards of wage and social conditions which lie behind the disinclination of other parts of the Empire to accord due preference to Hongkong manufactures. Whether we like it or not, the future tendency must be towards the raising of these standards. Whilst the Commissioners are, in principle, against subsidies, they put forward somewhat vague suggestions for governmental assistance to certain types of industries, and suggest, though in a rather nebulous manner, that the Government might co-operate more effectively in the interests of trade and commerce. Our own reaction to the report, after a close reading of its contents, is that there is little that this Colony can do of its own volition to lift it out of the prevailing depression. Our light industries may have a future, although the problem of marketing the products looks like becoming increasingly acute. But, in the main, our role is that of a distributing centre. When world trade revives, as it eventually must, we shall inevitably share in the wave of prosperity; our geographical position and the services we can render assure us that reasonable prospect. But until that time comes, we must, in the words of the report, wait patiently for the turn of the tide.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The New King as Admiral of the Fleet.

ALONG with his task of being in the military manoeuvres at Aldershot. King, George was also admiral of the fleet and field-marshal of the army.

Our picture to-day shows a painting of the King in his favourite uniform, as admiral. The painting was presented to Sir Henry Pellatt of Toronto, signed by the King, on the occasion of his accession to the throne.

It was in 1910 that Sir Henry Pellatt, as colonel of the Queen's Own Rifles, took a battalion of 750 men to England to take part

The presentation was made before the coronation of the King which did not take place until June 22, 1911. Before that, another elaborate ceremony was held at Carnarvon in Wales, after much dispute as to whether it would be held in Cardiff or Carnarvon. The ceremony was the investiture of the Young Prince Edward as Prince of Wales.

"Gracious! Don't you know ANYTHING about paint?"

The Very Idea!

IF SUMMER COMES

By Horatio Bogg, Pessimist.

THE unsettled weather of recent weeks gave our Best Girl much cause for complaint.

In between deciding whether she would be a blonde or a brunette this summer, she has had a most trying time endeavouring to keep pace with the vagaries of the Hongkong climate.

It is not that she is without ample resources, for her stock of creams, oils, powders and perfumes are of sufficient variety to meet every contingency, and, given stability in weather conditions, she can face the future with reasonable equanimity.

But in the matter of fixing her complexion and keeping it there for a decently long period, she has had to admit defeat. Warm and foggy days alternated so quickly with cold and rainy spells that whichever way she had decided it, her complexion was fairly ruined.

All this is enough to make any peroxide blonde, who can't go home for a summer vacation, weep.

Oh, to be in England in May, when the hawthorne blossoms on the hedges and the birds make whoopee! This is the time of year when it is the fashion for Government servants, tailors and other equally fortunate folk regularly to migrate from these shores, and the indications are that more than one swallow from Hongkong will make it a really English summer at home.

We who are amongst those, who, having to stay behind and take our Hongkong summer as we find it, will have many things to irritate us, and not the least of these is the chap on whom we have bestowed the dignity of being The First Rose of Summer.

Yourselves may see him any time now if you keep your eyes trimmed. He it is who, refusing to be further held down by the winter, is amongst the first to blossom out into whites and to sport a topcoat. Confident in the stability of things, he steps forth with an authoritative air, as if in his hands lies the destiny of our Hongkong climate.

Just now he has come up to us, a radiant figure—looking outrageously cool and collected. We sense in him a pity for us who have to work and perspire whilst he begins to enjoy life—so he says.

He carefully draws up one trousers leg preparatory to pinning a "K"-shod foot on our office chair.

We had anticipated the act, and held up a restraining hand.

"Just a minute," we said, as we laid a piece of paper on the chair for him to put his foot on it—if he must.

"Nice weather, what?" he remarks, more as a statement of an obvious fact than a question.

We agreed, and found ourselves admiring, together with him, the impeccable crease on the trouser leg held to view.

We helped him to flick a speck of dust off it with a handkerchief.

Twenty minutes later a shower fell. Life came back a wilted rose—his clothes besmirched, and bedraggled.

It was then that we laughed.

ROTTEN JOB!

A correspondent recently overheard two youngsters discussing their fathers.

"My father," said one proudly, "is a literary man."

"Oh, what a rotten job," declared his companion with disconcerting frankness. "He won't make much money collecting litter."

"SOME" WEATHER!

Mistakes of B.B.C. announcers have provided Mr. Stuart Bibberd with some more stories. Here is one about the tired announcer of the weather report, who declared that "The further outlook is unsettled. Strong westerly breezes will blow from all directions."

NATIONS' DANGEROUS POLICIES

MR. HENDERSON'S WARNING

GOING BACK TO 1914

(Special to "Telegraph")

Scarborough, April 22. Mr. Arthur Henderson, President of the Disarmament Conference, in a speech to the League of Nations Union here to-night, said the world was confronted with "an acute peace crisis."

Mr. Henderson added that he did not believe that war was imminent nor that it was by any means inevitable, but observed that "unhappily Europe and other parts of the world are showing signs of slipping back to the very policies which resulted in the world catastrophe of 1914."

He warned his hearers that the tendency to plan their faith in military might would only lead nations to dangerous complications. The principles upon which the League was established, the aims and objects of the Disarmament Conference, were the best, and at the present the only means, whereby the world could preserve its tranquillity.—United Press.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY

OBSERVANCE IN HONGKONG

To-day is being celebrated by Englishmen throughout the world as the anniversary of their Patron Saint, St. George. As part of the local celebrations, a wreath was laid at the Cenotaph at 11 a.m. by the President of the local St. George's Society, whilst this evening at 8.15, musical Military Bands will be giving a concert to include the playing of the "Retreat."

At the Cenotaph ceremony the President of St. George's Society (Mr. G. S. Archbutt) was supported by Mr. L. C. Bellamy (Vice-President), Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, K.C., Sir William Hornell, Mr. E. Cock, Mr. T. E. Pearce, Mr. G. C. Moxon, and Mr. C. Bulmer Johnson (Past Presidents), Mr. P. S. Cassady, Mr. W. A. Cornell, Mr. G. N. Tinson, Mr. A. Sommerfelt (Hon. Secretary of the Society), Mr. F. W. Stapleton and Mr. J. H. A. Hance.

The concert at the Cricket Club ground this evening, is being given, by kind permission of the Officers Commanding, by the two English Battalions in the Colony, the 1st Bn. The Lincolnshire Regiment, and the 2nd Bn. The East Lancashire Regiment.

The conductors will be: Bandmaster A. B. Yule 2nd Bn. The East Lancashire Regiment, and Bandmaster R. Griffith, A.R.C.M., 1st Bn. The Lincolnshire Regiment.

The concert is open to members of the general public, admission being free.

STOLE THREE DIAMONDS

GLASS SUBSTITUTES IN RING

Lau Hing-chiu, an employee of the firm of A. G. James and Din, jewellers, 58 Nathan Road, was sent to prison for two months by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of theft of three diamonds, valued at $120.

Inspector Whant stated that defendant had worked with the firm since March 5. He was given white and yellow gold and seven diamonds to make a ring. On April 6, he asked leave to go to the country for the Tung Ming Festival, and handed the ring to complainant's wife. The defendant failed to return to work and the complainant, becoming suspicious, examined the ring and found that three diamonds were missing, having been replaced by glass. On his arrest on Saturday the defendant assisted the police in recovering the diamonds from pawnshops. He pawned them for $14.

The violin and piano recital by Miss Prue Lewis and Mr. Harry Ore, which is to take place in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel on Thursday night at 9.15, promises delightful entertainment to music lovers. The programme is a well balanced one, comprising works by old as well as modern composers; and to the well-known charge of Mr. Ore's performance will be added the fresh element of a youthful violinist who will be heard here for the first time.

Expansion Of Trade

AMERICAN AIMS IN FAR EAST

Shanghai, Apr. 23. Mr. W. Cameron Forbes, head of the American Economic Investigation Mission, issued a statement to the Press on his arrival here explaining the object and nature of the mission to China. He said that it was the first time that an American economic mission so representative of American commercial and industrial interests had visited China. The programme of the mission had been fixed and the members would avail themselves of the flying facilities in various parts of the country.

Mr. Forbes made it clear that the activities of the mission would be purely commercial, and entirely without political significance. Their sole object was to study trade relations between the United States and China and to explore the possibilities of expansion.

After paying a visit to Nanking, the members of the mission will start their actual work in Shanghai by exchanging views with the leading members of Chinese commercial and industrial circles.—Central News.

SHAI MARKET REPORT

FOREIGN EXCHANGE VERY STRONG

Shanghai, April 23. No business was transacted during the first quarter of an hour on the Foreign Exchange Market here this morning, but the market is very strong due to the fact that a bomb silver was up one and a half rupees during the last two days.

In addition the recent native bank failures indicate that the tight money situation continues. U.S. dollars are 40, Sterling 1/7 11/16, and Gold Bars $797.00.—United Press.

The market eased at 10.30 a.m., when a few buyers of exchange appeared. Most of the selling has been done by Daiwa merchants.

U. S. dollars are 39 7/8, Sterling is 1/7 3/4, and Gold Bars $798.00. The market was steady at the close of the morning session.—United Press.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

Banished only on March 3 for a period of ten years, Cheung Yee, 49, unemployed, was arrested yesterday by Indian constable H74. On being brought before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy this morning, he was charged with a breach of the Deportation Ordinance and sentenced to 10 months' hard labour.

U.S. DISCUSSES DRASTIC PROTECTIVE MEASURE

Washington, April 22. The possibility of Japan voluntarily limiting her cotton textile exports to the United States, owing to the protests on the part of American manufacturers who are demanding the adoption of a general quota system for Japanese goods, is speculated upon in Government circles, while the Tariff Commission is pushing the study of the textile industry's situation.

Meanwhile, with charges and counter-charges flying fast, the situation is becoming more and more involved, causing the Administration serious trouble.

The Administration is visibly annoyed by what is described as propaganda by textile interests, while the latter resent violently the Administration's charges of incompetent management and obsolete mill machinery.—Reuter.

BOMB OUTRAGE

CANTON INCIDENT CAUSES PANIC

Canton, April 22. Another bomb outrage occurred at 8.15 to-night at the Hopkee Restaurant in Sui Pat-pai Road, as a result of which one person was seriously injured.

The victim was one of the waiters of the restaurant, whose arm was blown off. He was at once rushed to hospital.

Following the explosion there was a panic in the district and martial law was enforced for half an hour.

Two suspects were arrested in connection with the bombing, which is believed to be the work of bandits who have been black-mailing the restaurant.—Reuter.

War Against Narcotics

LEAGUE PLANS IMPLEMENTED

Nanking, April 23. The Executive Yuan has issued an order giving effect to a resolution adopted by the League Council forbidding the manufacture or sale by foreigners in China of opium or heroin.

The resolution provides that any foreigner residing in China, if found to have committed the crime, is liable to deportation from China forever, and provides that the Chinese Government will withdraw protection to any foreign steamer in Chinese waters if she is found to have offended.

The Chinese Government also urges in compliance with the League resolution, that interested foreign Governments co-operate with the Chinese Government by taking legislative measures inflicting severe punishment upon those who are found to be involved in these illegal activities in China.—Central News.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, Apr. 22. The following reports on the New York Stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Stocks were upward, carrying industrial and utility averages into new high levels for the year. Trading was the heaviest since February 18, due to the conviction on the part of traders that the Rayburn Bill will be materialized. Prices eased toward the close, due to profit-taking which, however, was on the light side. The switch is interpreted as a highly favourable sign. Bonds and also stocks on the Cash Exchange were upward.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Mill activity is estimated at 44.9 per cent. of capacity, against 44.9 per cent. the previous week.

New York and Chicago commodity reports received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:—

Cotton: A Cabinet Committee is investigating the textile situation. The market was more subject to reactions as the 12-cent loan tend to peg the price and discourage outside interest. A further two-sided market is probable.

Wheat: The best grades of wheat are not available for delivery and many hedges are out of position. Cash wheat is firm. There is no relief in the main drought areas. Visible supplies show a decrease of 2,162,000 bushels.

Corn: Short covering of May corn partially relieved the situation. There was some increase in the movement of corn, but there was no weakness and the small supply outlook continues a feature. Prices will probably rule irregularly higher. Visible supplies show a decrease of 1,386,000 bushels.

Rubber: There was covering of hedges on local loss, otherwise the market was featureless.

ARSENAL WIN FOOTBALL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

BRILLIANT HOLIDAYS ACHIEVEMENT

BRENTFORD & CHARLTON NEED ONE POINT FOR TITLES

PORTSMOUTH TRIUMPH AGAIN OVER MANCHESTER CITY

London, April 22.
The Arsenal, most famous football team of all time, to-day won the championship of the English Football League for the third year in succession, thus equalling the record established by Huddersfield from 1923 to 1926. Sunderland are assured of the runners-up honours.

As a result of to-day's holiday matches, Brentford require but one point from their remaining two matches to win the second division championship and promotion, while Charlton also require one point to win the southern section of the third division and with it promotion to the second division.

DOUBLE DEFEAT

Apart from the Arsenal's brilliant achievement of winning all three holiday fixtures, the outstanding feature of the first division results was the double defeat of Manchester City by Portsmouth which put the City out of the running for second place.

London clubs all performed with distinction during Easter. Brentford twice beat Bradford and Fulham twice beat Manchester United. Charlton obtained five points from a maximum of six.

There were a number of reverse results to-day, home teams scoring consistently. Doncaster, who were beaten at home by Rotherham on Friday took revenge and had the satisfaction of earning four points from three matches. Chester were held to a draw by Crewe, but the championship of the northern section of the third division is still a very open question.

The results of to-day's matches were enabled by Reuter and they are appended below together with the records of the leading teams in each division.

CARDINALS STRONGER

ROOKIES TO BOLSTER TEAM

Gelbert Attempts "Come-Back"

Bradenton, April 22.
Two facts impress the roving training camp reporter when he walks into the park where the world champion St. Louis Cardinals are preparing for a strenuous 1935 campaign. The first is that the Cards, generally considered the strongest front in the National League this year, are strengthening their club more than any other in the south; the other is the remarkable comeback of Charley Gelbert.

From behind that big desk in the Cards' front office, and back of those half-glasses he peers through, Boss Branch Rickey fine-tuned the bushes since the close of last winter, and the cream of that far-flung Red Bird farm system is quartered in this sunny Florida city.

OUR NEW FEATURE FOR BASEBALL FANS

The rookie crop was exceptionally productive, and such a conglomerate of youthful ball players as is present here has the effect of making the veterans of the club fight all the harder for their jobs. The result is that you see practice sessions out there on the field reminiscent of a mid-July game with the club in the thick of the pennant fight.

Still noticeably favouring a left leg believed hopelessly crippled by a gunshot wound in the fall of 1932, Gelbert's return to baseball this spring is highly dramatic. He is the hardest worker among the hardest-working ball players in either major league.

So remarkable has Gelbert's performance been to date that several Cardinals, including First Baseman Jimmy Collins, believe the former all-round Lebanon Valley wilder who captured the Red Birds in 1934, (Continued on Page 9.)

ARMY FOOTBALL CUP

Won By The Royal Tank Corps

London, April 22.
In a high-scoring match at Aldershot to-day, the 4th Battalion Royal Tank Corps won for the first time in the history of the competition the Army Association Cup.

They defeated the 2nd Battalion Royal Ulsters in the final by six goals to three. This was also the first time the Royal Ulsters have appeared in the final.—Reuter.

Two-Referees Experiment Big Success

INCIDENTS IN TRIAL PROVE VALUE OF NEW METHODS

Frank M. Carruthers of the Daily Mail writes optimistically concerning the likely success of the Two-Referee plan of controlling football matches when discussing the trial at West Bromwich last month.

He writes:—
In judging the system of control, I suppose it will again be said that the play was not as stern as in the League, and that the test, therefore, was not thorough. I think, I must have been appreciative that it reduced the work of each official by 50 per cent., that they were able to keep up with the forwards while moving at little more than walking pace, and that they were close enough to referee all doubt as to the correctness of every decision.

Three incidents, in particular, proved the value of the method of control.

SIRDAR OR "H. D."?

For Tennis Final

MEET TO-MORROW

For Fourth Time

(By "Veritas")

Three times beaten by S. A. Rumjahn in the course of the last six years, H. D. Rumjahn has probably his best chance of inflicting defeat on his cousin for the first time in the open singles tennis championship when they meet in the semi-final to-morrow.

The cousins, among the most attractive of the Colony's tennis experts, have always been evenly matched, and as H.D. has of recent years shown improved form at singles, many of his admirers feel he will win on the stand court to-morrow.

NOT FIRST TIME

This is not H.D.'s first appearance in the semi-final. He met Sirdar at that stage of the tournament in 1929 but was beaten. In 1933 the cousins clashed in a second round tie when Sirdar won, although somewhat luckily. They came into second round opposition again last year and again H.D. took the count, after having the match more or less "in his pocket."

Certainly the meeting of the cousins during the last two years has revealed that H.D. is capable of winning if he cares to devote his whole concentration to the task. But he has displayed a penchant for losing interest at the vital stages of the games, allowing his cousin to make spectacular recoveries for which he is noted.

If the truth is told it cannot be said that H.D. is showing quite such good form this year as last. Although quietly confident against Paul Kong he was not too impressive in stroke production. On the other hand Sirdar seems to have regained his skill and pertinacity of two years ago and up to the present has been playing like a champion.

ULTIMATE CHAMPION?

Sirdar's only anxious moments in the tournament to date were against Lee Wai-long, but once again his fighting spirit pulled him through.

It is generally felt that the winner of this tie to-morrow will prove the ultimate champion for 1935. Well though Ricketts played against Ho Ka-lau, it is felt that the speed of either of the cousins will be sufficient to upset Ricketts' strokes which he so successfully exploited against the Chinese.

PREVIOUS RESULTS

Here are the results of the three meetings of the cousins in the past:—

HOCKEY

GREAT PROGRESS DURING SEASON JUST ENDED

COLONY'S MANY ACHIEVEMENTS

(By R. H. B.)

Looking back on the past season one must admit without hesitation that hockey during 1934-35 made great progress.

The outstanding achievement was the defeat of Macao by three goals to one in the Interport match played in the Portuguese Colony. The team also beat the Shanghai Gorman Hockey Club, undefeated Shanghai champions, both in the Interport and civilian games.

The International Tournament was followed with great interest and the final match between India and England, which was won by the former, will linger long in the memory of hockey enthusiasts as one of the best games of the season.

The annual Triangular Tournament was won by the Hongkong Hockey Club and the series provided many interesting fixtures.

In military hockey, the Inter Unit Knock Out competition was won by the Hongkong Singapore Brigade Royal Artillery who defeated the Punjab Regiment in a memorable match to win the Garrison Soldiers Club Cup.

The Mamak Hockey Tournament found no less than eighteen teams battling for first place. The Kowloon Indians Tennis Club won with an undefeated record. The Royal Engineers and the Police also did very well.

LADIES' SUCCESS

The greatest success in local ladies' hockey was the defeat of the Shanghai Ladies in the first official Interport hockey match. A solitary goal gave Hongkong custody of the White Shield which will be competed for annually. The visit of the Northern team gave impetus to the growth of the game among ladies here.

The Caer Clark Cup competition once again was won by the Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Club, holders since its inception in 1925. Hongkong, both in men's and ladies' hockey, made a clean sweep in representative games against Shanghai and Macao.

STOP CHEATING IN RUGBY

DRAMATIC ADVICE
BY PRESIDENT

SEND MEN OFF

(By J. P. Jordan)

We shall not do any good until people who deliberately break the laws are sent off the field at Twickenham, Murrayfield, or Lansdowne-road.

From any official of the Rugby Union this statement would be startling, but coming as it did from the president, Mr. J. Milnes, when he talked to Rugby referees, it is startling.

As I have said before, cheating still goes on in Rugby football, and my experience is that it is more pronounced in big matches than in the more humble club games.

I am glad Mr. Milnes has had the courage to say in public what is well known in private—that certain players deliberately cheat—and at the same time want to the true remedy for a state of things that is spoiling the game.

REFEREES LAX

He has done the game a good turn by telling the London referees that since the war referees in general have been rather lax in enforcing the laws, so much so, in fact, that it may take a long time to get back to the proper spirit in which the game should be played.

Mr. Milnes rightly holds that penalty kicks and circulars do not seem to have any effect. He struck the right note when he implied that no good would be done until players who deliberately broke the laws in an international match were ordered off the field.

Everyone who has watched senior football will agree that occasions arise when a "sending off" would have a salutary effect on the game. But referees shrink from acting.

A case in point was provided in a recent inter-services match, which we had hitherto regarded as the essence of what Rugby should be, when one player was repeatedly guilty of open singles championship. 1929, S. A. Rumjahn beat H. D. Rumjahn 6-1, 6-4, 6-3 in the semi-final.

1932, S. A. Rumjahn beat H. D. Rumjahn 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the second round.

1934, S. A. Rumjahn beat H. D. Rumjahn 6-4, 1-6, 9-7 in the second round.

FINAL ON FRIDAY

Friday has been fixed for the final of the open singles championship on the stand court when either S. A. or H. D. Rumjahn will meet G.H.M. Ricketts.

The complete programme of this week's games is appended.

Wednesday, April 24

Singles Semi-final.—S. A. Rumjahn v. H. D. Rumjahn.

Friday, April 26

Singles Final.—G. R. M. Ricketts v. Winner of above match.

Monday, April 29

Club Championship Final.—E. L. H. Shute v. G. R. M. Ricketts.

Wednesday, May 1

Doubles Final.—S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn v. W. C. Hung and Ho Kailau.

flagrant obstruction. Referees hesitate to act, but the referee who will do as Mr. Milnes suggests in a match between two countries will do a tremendous service to the game, and would win support from everyone.

So far, foul play—such as hacking, tripping, or striking—has been the only infringement to which ordering off has been applied. Now that the president of the R.U. has spoken his mind, perhaps referees will deal with willfully holding, illegal tackling, and the most frequent crime of all, obstruction, in the same drastic manner.

Baseball Prospects: Cards: Stronger This Year

for the shortstop post. Rickey says it is going to be difficult to choose between them, despite Gilbert's enhanced leg and two-year layoff.

ROOM FOR ONLY ONE

It was suggested to Manager Frankie Frisch that there would be room for both Durocher and Gilbert, with the latter playing third base, and the aggressive Pepper Martin returning to centre field. Frisch vetoed this proposition without delay.

"There is no sense in putting two men out of position to place one," he explains. The Cardinal foreman also had in mind Terry Moore, a centre fielder up from Columbus, whose only weakness is said to be foul flies, when he made that statement.

Regardless of the competition Durocher is to receive from Gilbert, the lippy one has plenty of other reasons to sprout gray hair. One is Fred Ankenman, a rookie shortstop who comes up from Houston.

A likeable sort of youngster, the 23-year-old Texan is a whiz in the field, but both in mind and Terry Moore, who is admittedly weak with the willow. Frisch is taking steps to improve his hitting.

Two other young infielders who show exceptional promise are Don Gutteridge, also from Houston, and Charley Wilson, from Columbus. The latter, with a stick mark of .325, might, with a regular berth at third base in the event that Pepper Martin is switched to centre field, replace Ernie Osnat—and that event isn't without consideration by Frisch.

Wilson is an impressive lad, who has been up before and has the poise of a major leaguer. Replacements in the outfield are a likely looking lot. Besides the aforementioned Terry Moore, who is a wow, there are Red Worthington, obtained from the Braves last year; Johnny Winsett, Rochester and ex-Red Sox, rookie who hit .361 for the Card farm; and Eugene Moore, who came up from Columbus at the end of last season and hit .278 in nine games for the Red Birds. Bill DeLancey and Virgil Davis will rate No. 1 and No. 2 catching berths, respectively, and there is none in camp capable of ousting them.

PICHERS A WHOLE PARADE!

The playing field is cluttered up with pitching talent. You find hurriers battling, playing first base and hitting, hitting fungoes, and generally getting into your hair—which gives one the idea that Frankie Frisch isn't going to rest on the pitching laurels won by the Denny, Bill Hallahan, and Bill Walker last season.

The Red Birds have a flock of youngsters up for trial this spring, and all are ticketed for the majors sooner or later.

There are Ray Harrell, a big right-hander who won 13 and lost 9 for Rochester in 1934; Ed Heusser, a left-hander who saw only a little action at Columbus last season; Norbert Kleinke, a Rochester right-hander in 1934, who turned in 19 victories—against only 3 defeats; Henry Phippen, who shaped up as all that his name implies in winning 15 and dropping 16 for Houston; and Dick Ward, who got a brief trial with the Cubs last year and then turned in 13 victories against 4 losses for Los Angeles. Ward also is a right-hander.

Frisch is counting on a good year from Pat Malone, the cantankerous Cub, acquired in a deal last fall. Malone won 14 against 7 for Chicago, and it was reported that Grimm traded him off because he was a bad boy. Pat has promised to be good this season, and if he is, both morally and in the line of pitching success, the rest of the league is due for another year of depression.

SERIAL STORY

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lee Brookman

CHAPTER XLVIII

Letters, telegrams and a sheet of mimeographed pages were spread over the big desk. The ornamental paper weight and the silver ash tray had been pushed aside to make way for a folder, hulkily stuffed with manuscripts. A trade directory and two railroad time tables lay just beyond. In the centre of the desk, on top of everything else, was a sheet of paper, neatly typed with columns of figures.

The memorandum pad was scrawled with notations. The pens in their holder were moist with ink. And the telephone was ringing.

Brian Westmore turned from the figures he had been reading and took up the telephone. "Yes," he said. "I want that New York call as soon as you can get it. I want to talk to McNeal himself. Yes, that's right. Keep trying until you get him."

The telephone snapped back into place. Brian picked up the sheet of figures again. He reached for a pencil, made some notes on a pad and studied them thoughtfully.

It had been two weeks, exactly, since Brian had moved into the office that had been Thatcher's. There were two lines of black lettering on the door leading into the office. The lower one was just as it had been, but the one above had been changed. The lettering on the door now read, "Brian Westmore, general manager."

The two weeks had been trying, strenuous. Brian had tackled them manfully, had fought his way through. There had been difficulties—serious ones—until it had been demonstrated, clearly and beyond dispute, that the policies Robert Thatcher had been carrying on in the mill were entirely his own, without the knowledge or consent of the owners. There had been scenes with Brian's mother, hysterical and tearful. There had been long sessions with the men from Washington whose arrival and subsequent activities had caused Thatcher's sudden flight.

Thatcher and his daughter, so reports had it, were in Canada. Or, by this time they might be somewhere else. Brian, knowing what he did of Thatcher's affairs, was certain that, having made the trip out of the country safely, there was little likelihood that they would return. At least not for a long while. Robert Thatcher had exercised his usual shrewd sense concerning his personal welfare when he and Vicky had boarded a privately chartered plane two weeks before.

That part of the affair was probably for the best, though Brian had not thought so at the time. He had raged bitterly because he was unable to face Robert Thatcher and tell him, in blazing, unforgettable language, exactly what he thought of him. Liar, hypocrite—they were mild words for a scoundrel like Thatcher.

Brian yearned for vengeance for the way he himself had been treated at the mill, for having been pushed aside and ignored, for the misrepresentations and falsehoods Thatcher had uttered so smoothly. The man was a thief, filling his pockets at the expense of hundreds of hard-working employees, as well as of Brian and his mother. Thatcher had done even worse things. There was the death of Steve Meyers. No one but he had saved himself considerable embarrassment by getting out of the country. The investigation of that outrage was going on quietly. Brian was determined to do everything he could to bring the guilty ones to justice.

There was one consolation he enjoyed. Brian knew that Thatcher, for all his thievish and money-grubbing, had been able to take care of himself. He had been able to depart, with him on his hurried departure. The man who had worshipped gold had lost his idol.

The telephone on Brian's desk rang again and he picked it up. He listened, said, "Oh, yes. Ask her to come in, will you?"

When, a moment later, the door opened and Gale Henderson stood on the threshold Brian was entirely the executive, clear-eyed, impersonal. Gale said, "You sent for me?"

"Yes. Won't you come in?" She closed the door behind her. Brian, without rising, motioned her to a chair. He went on, "Yes, I wanted to talk to you. We're making a number of changes in the mill, as you may know—re-arranging schedules, adding employees, letting some go."

Gale nodded. "I want to thank you," she said. "For taking my brother back."

Brian saved this aside. "I understand he's a good workman. We need more of them. We're taking back as many as possible who have been let out in the last six months. We'll need them. There's going to be work for them."

Gale knew what he said was true. Mary Casely was back in the mill now. So were dozens of others. They had been returning, those who had lost their jobs, ever since Brian had taken command. Wages had been increased, too.

Brian looked down at the page of figures on his desk, quickly glanced up. "That brings me to the reason I wanted to see you," he said. "Miss Groves, the former personnel director, left several days ago. There's no one in her place. I've been wondering if you'd like it."

"You mean—?"

"I'm asking you"—Brian frowned slightly—"if you'd like to take over the work of the personnel director. I suppose you know something of what it means—interviewing with them, working out problems that need adjustment. It's work that calls for tact and understanding. I think you might step into the place and handle it in a way that would be much more helpful, from the management's point of view, than an outsider could. Well—what do you think of it?" Gale said slowly, "But—oh, I'd like to try!"

"Then it's settled. Drop in this afternoon and have a talk with Mr. Cunningham. He'll tell you more about the work in detail. Mr. Cunningham was in the mill with my father. I'm sure you'll like working with him. About salary—"

The figure he named—look Gale's breath. It was more money than she had had at any time since she had been working. More money than she had dreamed of!

She said, "I can't tell you how grateful I am!"

Brian smiled for the first time during the interview. "Then don't try," he said.

"But I must! I want to tell you, too, that I'm sorry for the things I said that night you came and offered to help Phil. I didn't mean them. I'm terribly sorry."

Brian cut in, "Forget about it. It doesn't matter."

He was cycling her closely. "You mean—?"

Gale said, beneath lowered lashes, "I mean I know you were trying to help me." She hesitated, then went on, "You've done so much for everyone else. I hope what's happened isn't going to spoil your happiness."

"What in the world are you talking about?"

Gale coloured. "I was trying to say I hope Miss Thatcher's going away isn't going to change things. I mean about your marriage."

Brian stared. "Marriage?" he exclaimed. "What marriage?"

"Why yours and Miss Thatcher's?"

"You think I'm going to marry Vicky Thatcher? Where did you ever get an idea like that?"

"She told me," she said. "The wedding was going to be in June. That's why I'm coming so soon."

Brian interrupted. "When did all this happen?" he asked. "When did Vicky tell you that?"

"The night you and she came to my house."

"That night—" Brian uttered a sharp exclamation. "The little liar!" he said. "Why, she's as bad as her father. The little liar! And so Vicky has been responsible for all this!"

He was on his feet now. "Listen, Gale," he said, earnestly. "I'm not engaged to Vicky Thatcher. I never have been. There isn't anybody—anybody in the world, do you understand?—I'll ever be engaged to except you. I told you before that I love you and I mean it. I love you, darling, with all my heart!"

She raised eyes that were shining. She said, "Oh, Brian—"

It was later that Gale said, "I can hardly believe everything's happened the way it has. It's all so wonderful."

"Everything's going to be wonderful."

ful from now on," Brian told her. "Wonderful for you and me."

"But that's not all I mean," Gale corrected. "I mean it's so wonderful about the people who are back at work, the things you've done for them, and for the mill. I want to help, Brian, in every way I can."

"You will," he grinned. "It's the day of the New Deal," he told her. "A New Deal for the mill—and for you and me. Oh, that reminds me—"

He paused, then went on, assuming a pose of mock dignity: "Miss Henderson, I have assumed the inestimable privilege of offering you my hand in honourable marriage. May I have your heart?"

Gale shook her head. "I don't see how I could give it to you," she said. "I don't see how I possibly could, because—you've had it for so long!"

He answered exactly as she had hoped he would.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

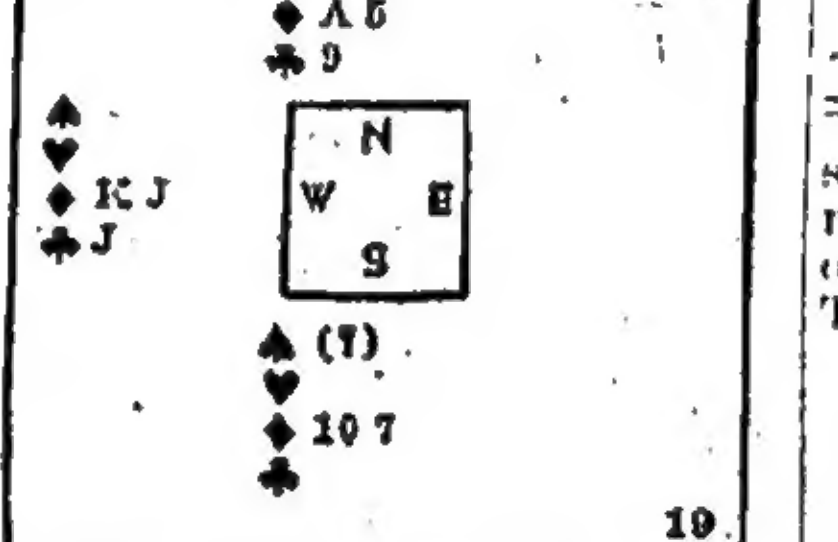

By W. E. McKenney

This is the last of six articles on the Tapel formula for recognizing and executing the squeeze play, as expounded in E. Hall Downes' new book entitled, "Squeezes, Coups and End Plays."

Before considering the final element in the Tapel formula for recognizing and executing the squeeze play, let me review the main points in the formula. These are as follows:

1. In every squeeze there must be two threats in different suits. These must be a one-card threat in one suit and a two-of-more card threat in another suit.
2. You must assume that only one opponent is able to guard your two threats.
3. You must be able to project the play down to the point where the hand of the opponent to be squeezed contains only the necessary cards to guard the two threat suits.
4. At the squeeze position you must have a final entry card into the opposite hand.
5. At the squeeze position you must make a squeeze lead—that is, you must lead a suit of which the opponent to be squeezed is void, therefore forcing him to discard his control over one of your two threats, thus transforming that threat (loser) into a winner, the needed extra trick.

Unless all these five elements are present, there can be no squeeze. They are interdependent and must be considered as a single unit. If any one of them is missing—there can be no squeeze.

Now let us consider the last element in the squeeze lead—in the Tapel formula.

After you have accurately developed the first four elements in the Tapel formula and you have placed your opponent in a squeeze position, you must be able to make a lead that will squeeze him. This is always the lead of a suit of which the opponent to be squeezed is void, thereby forcing him to discard.

Since your opponent's hand contains only control cards over your two threats, he is compelled to discard one of these controls, automatically transforming one of your threat cards into a winner. This is exactly what happens in every squeeze.

In the example above, South leads the spade seven at the 11th trick. Since West holds no spades, he is compelled to discard either the club jack or the diamond jack. No matter which of these he chooses to drop, he will automatically establish an extra winner for the declarer.

When the squeeze is properly executed, the opponent is helpless. He cannot prevent creation of an extra trick for the declarer.

The squeeze lead need not be a trump, although in most squeezes the last trump generally is the squeeze lead. The squeeze lead may be any card of which the opponent to be squeezed is void. This is the important point.

Today's Contract Problem
South is playing the contract at six spades. West opens the king of diamonds. Would you take the club finesse, or how would you play the hand if you found on the first spade trick that West was void of trumps?

SCOUTS WALK TO CANTON

DO TRIP IN LESS THAN FOUR DAYS

A party of Scouts from the 1st Hongkong (St. Joseph's) Troop arrived in Hongkong last evening by the steamer Patsan from Canton, having walked from Hongkong to Canton in three and three-quarter days. The party comprised nine Scouts in charge of District Scoutmaster Quah Cheow-cheang and Assistant Scoutmaster M. G. Lenz, with two school teachers, making a total of thirteen. Starting on Wednesday, April 17, in the afternoon, the party took train to Shum Chun, and began their long trek from there. They set off from Shum Chun at 3 p.m. and did eight miles on the first day, camping at 6 p.m. at Li Long station. On the second day they set off again at 6.30 a.m. and did 28 miles, reaching Sheung Ping, and on the third day they did another 28 miles, camping at Sha Po. They reached Canton on Saturday at about 6.30 p.m. On the first two days they were favoured with bright sunny weather, but the last two days were covered in a continuous drizzle. The party were warmly welcomed on arrival at Canton by the Canton Scouts, and were housed at the Canton Scouts Training Centre. They left yesterday afternoon by the steamer Patsan, being given a rousing send-off by the Canton Scouts, and arrived in Hongkong last night. All the members of the party were in high spirits after their long trek, and their only complaint was of having been troubled by mosquitoes at night. At Sha Po they were provided with a guard of Chinese soldiers at night, as a precaution against bandits. They were profuse in praise of the hospitality extended to them by the Canton Scouts.

MR. ALABASTER'S CHAUFFEUR

GETS OFF WITH CAUTION

Remarking that he did not think there was lack of due care and caution, but that defendant's proper course should have been to have drawn to the left hand side of the road, Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, discharged with a caution Wong Tin, driver of private car No. 3508, summoned for driving without due care and caution in Queen's Road Central. The defendant is driver to the Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, who was present in Court. Sergeant Brown, prosecuting, said the car was proceeding from east to west along Queen's Road Central, and he was coming in the opposite direction. The driver of the car almost stopped on the left hand side of the road, and then pulled out to the right hand side of the road. Apparently changing his mind, the driver put out his right hand, and suddenly pulled over to the left hand side of the road again, causing a motor cyclist who was coming behind to apply his brakes and stop dead. Mr. Alabaster said that, according to the facts, the defendant had no case to answer, as nothing happened.

STOWAWAYS IN COURT

AMERICAN SENT TO "HOUSE"

Joseph Mikis, 22, unemployed, of Chicago, pleaded guilty before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning to stowing away on the steamer Laganback from Manila to Hongkong. Det.-Inspector Whant stated that when the ship was six hours out from Manila, defendant gave himself up. He told the police that he had been a passenger on the President Jackson to Manila. He went there to find a friend. While there he was robbed of his passport and U.S. $80, he reported to the police. He had an uncle in Shanghai. Mikis was committed to the House of Detention pending arrangements. Meanwhile the authorities will communicate with his uncle.

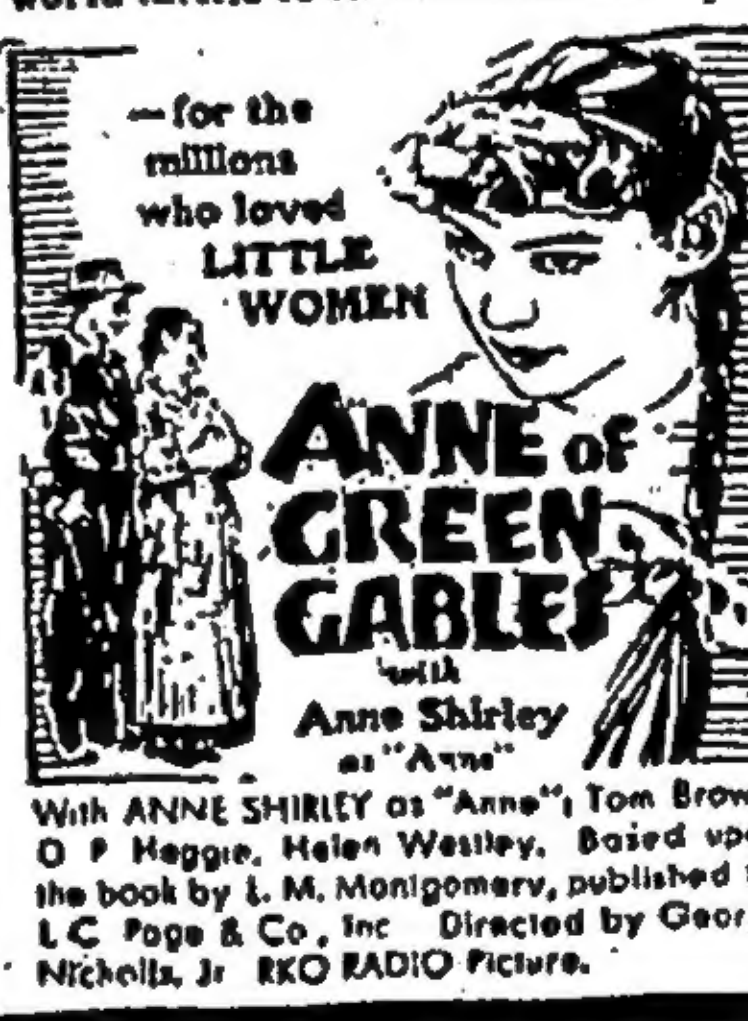

In another case, Li Tak, who admitted stowing away from Singapore to Hongkong on the Blue Funnel steamer Melanau, was fined $25, or one month. Mr. R. E. Wilks, second officer, stated that the fare was $11 Singapore money. Inspector Whant stated that defendant had been in Singapore for about a year, working as a filter.
